

Updated Call for Papers

Crimmigration through Time, Space, and Culture

CINETs-Border Criminologies 2024

Lewis & Clark Law School

Portland, OR

Crimmigration has gone global, and this conference aims to acknowledge that development with plenaries taking the pulse of immigration from borderlands north and south. Confirmed speakers include:

- Ahilan Arulanantham, Co-Director, Center for Immigration Law & Policy, UCLA Law
- Valsamis Mitsilegas, Dean of the School of Law & Social Justice & Professor of European & Global Law, School of Law and Social Justice, University of Liverpool
- Sanja Milivojevic, Co-Director Border Criminologies, University of Bristol
- César García Hernández, César Cuauhtémoc García Hernández, Gregory H. Williams Chair in Civil Rights and Civil Liberties, Ohio State University
- Roberto Dufraix-Tapia, Professor and Director, Universidad de Tarapacá, Chile
- Irene Vega, University of California, Irvine
- Smadar Ben-Natan, Jackson School of International Studies, University of Washington
- Jennifer Chacón, Bruce Tyson Mitchell Professor of Law, Stanford Law School
- Rawan Arar, Law, Societies & Justice, University of Washington

The conference will encourage cross-global comparisons and invite engagement with new strategies for thinking about the causes and consequences of crimmigration. The goal is to deepen our collective understanding of the colonial links to contemporary migration, the likely futures of immigration and the criminological responses of states and regions, particularly in the global south, to human movement.

This conference is a collaboration between the CINETs Crimmigration Control network and Oxford-based Border Criminologies, with support from the University of Liverpool and Lewis & Clark Law School. The conference should facilitate a lively discussion that includes new geographies, comparative insights, new methodologies, and attention to the evolving efforts of nations to control borders and populations, along with migrants' determination to evade those controls.

This conference will be in-person at Lewis & Clark Law School in Portland, Oregon on March 1–2, 2024. Early career scholars are invited to a get-acquainted event the evening of February 29th before the conference begins.

Please send an abstract and a tentative title no later than January 15, 2024, to Professor Marie Provine at marie.provine@gmail.com.

Note that if you intend to stay at the conference hotel, the deadline for conference rate rooms is January 15. The conference website will provide more information about that and other hotels.

Registration information is being finalized and will soon be on the event webpage. Standard registration is $250 for all attendees except PhD and other students, for whom it is $175. Standard registration will close on February 5, 2024, with a $275 standard fee and $200 student registration fee for late registrants. Refunds will not be available after February 5, 2024.

The final deadline to register to participate in the conference is February 28, 2024. All those who intend to present must have registered by that date.

Universiteit Leiden
The Netherlands

School of Law and Social Justice

MLAW PROGRAMS